1. Brief Activity Description.

The activity for which the money is requested is for 45 Psychology students to present the results and findings of their original empirical research projects at the annual conference of the Western Psychological Association (WPA), held in Los Angeles, CA beginning April 28, 2011. Under faculty sponsorship, all research is submitted to the campus' IRB for approval to conduct the research.

Students' research projects and presentations cover a wide range of topics within and across the field of psychology; some have a decidedly interdisciplinary flavor as well. WPA employs a peer review process for paper selection. This funding is solely for those students who have papers/posters accepted for presentation at the conference. In the field of Psychology, students who present at such conferences have a much greater probability of being admitted into graduate school. So, this opportunity is one that will not only deal with meeting the Psychology program learning outcomes listed below, but will enhance their future careers as well. The research and presentations relate to several Psychology Program outcomes as follows:

- Students should understand and be able to use major research methods in psychology (design, data analysis & interpretation).

- Students should have an understanding of applications of psychology to personal, social and organizational issues.

- Students should use and respect skeptical inquiry, critical thinking, and the scientific approach to understanding behavior.

- Students should have an understanding of the complexity of cultural diversity.

- Students should be able to express themselves effectively in written and oral communication.

Moreover, supporting students' original research and the dissemination of that research also helps to fulfill the University's Institutionally based learning outcomes:

CSUCI graduates will possess an education of sufficient breadth and depth to appreciate and interpret the natural, social and aesthetic worlds and to address the highly complex issues facing societies. Graduates will be able to:

- Identify and describe the modern world and issues facing societies from multiple perspectives including those within and across disciplines, cultures and nations (when appropriate).

- Analyze issues, and develop and convey to others solutions to problems using the methodologies, tools and techniques of an academic discipline.

This facilitates' Psychology graduates that meet the requirements of all CSUCI Graduates, who are:

- informed about past, present, and future issues affecting human society and natural world, and the inter-relatedness of society and the natural world;

- empowered with the disciplinary and interdisciplinary knowledge necessary to evaluate problems, the ability to translate knowledge into judgment and action, and excellent communication skills for conveying their interpretations and opinions to a diverse audience;

- creative in developing imaginative self-expression and independent thinking, with joy and passion for learning; and

- dedicated to maintaining the principles of intellectual honesty, democracy, and social justice, and to participating in human society and the natural world as socially responsible individual citizens.

2. Relation to IRA to Course Offerings.

All IRAs must be integrally related to the formal instructional offerings of the University and must be associated with scheduled credit courses. Please list all classes that relate to the program proposed.

All student presentations emanate from semester or year-long course sequences that are either required for Psychology majors (PSY 300/301: Psychological research and Statistical Methods I, II), advanced electives (PSY 305: Field Research Methods; PSY 482: Intermediate Statistics), and directed study/independent study courses where students conduct their empirical research projects in close collaboration with faculty (PSY 494: Independent Research in Psychology; PSY 497: Directed Study in Psychology).

3. Activity Assessment.

Students will prepare posters or presentations that they will then present at the convention. Posters will also be included in the annual Psychology Program Research Conference held each May. At the CSUCI Psychology program conference, faculty shall assess the posters using a rubric.

4. Activity Budget.
Field Trip

Travel: The convention is being held in downtown Los Angeles this year so only train fare ($27 round trip) will be needed, per student. $1215 for 45 students.

Membership ($30) and Conference Registration ($35) = $65/student. $2925 for 45 students.

Meals: Students will pay for their own meals (45 students @ $50/day) =$2250.

Hotel: Four students will share a room at the conference hotel for the reduced conference rate of $229/ night plus taxes ($32.21) for one night, totaling $261.21. Twelve rooms will cost $3135)
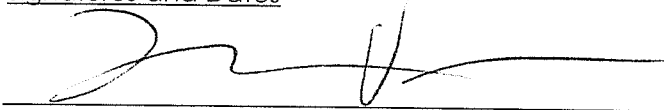

Total amount budgeted = $9525.00
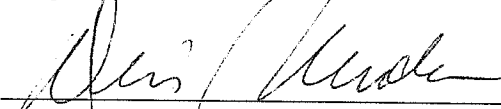

Total amount requested = $7275.00

5. Sources of Activity Support.

There is no other source for institutional support; without IRA funding, only those students who can afford to go will do so. Under this condition, CSUCI will have lost a prime opportunity to fulfill its mission to serve its constituents, many of which will not be able to attend because of the costs involved, disadvantaging them relative to their more affluent peers. As it is, we are not requesting per diem expenses for food, incidentals or other things that often come up during a conference.
