Brief Activity Description	In Fall semester 2017 I will teach one course for which I am requesting guest speakers. The course is PSY344 Psychology and Traditional Asian Thought. The 344 course is taught from a multicultural point of view. For PSY 344 I would like to bring in Jessica Anderson who is a Yoga teacher and expert as well as traditional Chinese medicine doctor Julie Ryan. Both Jessica and Julie have lectured/demonstrated in my classes in the past and both were popular and impactful with the students, enhancing their learning. PSY 344 is a very popular class with large enrollments on campus (approximately 90) and online (approximately 30). Therefore, these speakers impacted a large number of students.
Learning Outcomes and Relation to IRA to Course Offerings	PSY 344 Psychology and Traditional Asian Thought: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The invited speakers helped students reach the following educational objectives in Psychology</li> <li>• Understanding of applications of psychology to personal, social, and organizational aspects of their lives</li> <li>• The use and respect of skeptical inquiry, critical thinking, and the scientific approach to understanding behavior</li> <li>• Understanding of the complexity of cultural diversity</li> <li>• Understanding themselves and others in a cultural context</li> <li>• The development of interpersonal skills for diversity over the lifespan</li> <li>• Understanding of themselves and others in a cultural context</li> <li>• Development of interpersonal skills for diversity over the lifespan</li> <li>• The guest speakers also helped realize the following outcomes related to our Mission Statement: Identify and Describe the Modern World and Issues from Multiple Perspectives</li> </ul>
Description of Assessment Process	The guest speaker lecture/demonstrations will be assessed through Student Surveys of teaching as well as through speaking with students individually about what they liked and didn't like about the lectures/demonstrations. Both of these speakers received excellent ratings in the past.
