Describe the activity and its relationships to the educational objectives of the students' program or major

Brief Activity Description

"And Still We Rise" is a series of panel events where individuals from intersecting backgrounds come together to share their personal narratives. Traditionally marginalized or silenced experiences will be uplifted in this series, to disrupt dominate narratives and center those voices that are on the margins. The series is open for the entire campus community, with a focus on students from historically underrepresented backgrounds to foster a space for counter narratives that will empower and encourage their exploration of their own identities and academic success. The theme for Fall 2018 will be People of Color in STEM, which will bring CI faculty and guest speakers to discuss their experiences. This will be an opportunity for students from historically under presented backgrounds to engage and connect them with role models to broaden their perception of academic and professional goals.

Approve--there are elements of the budget that are essential for this event to move forward (honoraria, travel) and elements that are motivational in nature (food, business card holder gifts). I leave it to the IRA committee to decide to what extent they can fund the entire budget for this important event.
