Brief Activity Description

This is a unique opportunity to for Early Childhood Studies (ECS) students to present and attend the fall 2021 National Virtual Learning Stories Conference. Students will not only present about their use with the Learning Stories assessment method in their ECS courses, but they will also learn how this innovative approach is used nationally in early childhood settings and throughout the United States.

Students will present workshops about how Learning Stories are used as a formative assessment in their ECS courses. In addition, students will also deepen their knowledge of Learning Stories by hearing a New Zealand international keynote speaker, including an indigenous Maori renowned early educator, workshops, panel discussion from national and international leading experts on Learning Stories. This is an amazing opportunity for the ECS program students to meet local, state and national early childhood educators, as they share their experience, gain new knowledge, and further their understanding of Learning Stories, as an authentic children's assessment practice.

Learning Outcomes & Relation to Course Offering

The Learning outcomes for the Fall 2021 National Virtual Learning Stories Conference, are as follows:

1. Demonstrate understanding of narrative, formative approach to assessment practices
2. Understand how narrative stories are used as a formative method of assessment that includes child, parent, family, and community members
3. Understand diverse, cultural and linguistic representation through the Learning Stories method
4. Analyze and compare Learning Stories as an observational approach used with other California and United States child assessment methods

Is this activity off campus ?

Yes

Off Campus - Describe benefit brought back to campus

This "Off Campus" activity is a virtual conference where students will be able to participate from their home or location of choice.

Students will share what they learn to their ECS classes, student teaching field experience and work in the field of early education. Faculty will include class discussion and assignments to further student learning. Students will share with peers who are not able to attend the National Learning Stories Conference through class discussions and informal settings. Furthermore, students will share their advanced assessment practice using Learning Stories to document children's learning and development with their student teaching placements, CI community, and in future employment. This National Virtual Learning Stories Conference will be inspirational and will be shared with other educators to further advance the high academic quality of CSUCI ECS program.
