Discussion with Michael Berman, Chief Information Officer
Michael Berman described his intent to have the newly constituted cross-divisional Information Technology Policy and Planning Committee play a role in assessment of the Academic and Information Technology division. Using the mission and strategic plan of the University as a guide, he expects the committee will help identify goals, and then he and his team will work to build an assessment plan.

Future Chair of the Assessment Council
Nelle Moffett has expressed interest in becoming the new Chair of the Assessment Council.

After receiving favorable responses from those present, Dennis Muraoka agreed to compose a recommendation for review by all members before forwarding to Dr. Rush for approval.
Assessment Activities Reports
Caroline Doll – due to the diverse nature of the departments within the division of Finance and Administration, assessment activities vary widely. Examples include surveys administered by the Chancellor’s Office through the Quality Improvement Program. Efforts are being made to map processes in order to facilitate communication and understanding, as well as document for analysis to identify potential areas for improvement. Support offered in the past by the Chancellor’s Office will be reduced in the coming year due to budget constraints; no surveys will be offered and consulting services will be limited.
