In this lecture, Dr. Eryilmaz will introduce computer science students to the design science research methodology and introduce core concepts covered in COMP 449, Human Computer Interaction and COMP 420, Database Systems. As an innovator in web-based social applications, Dr. Eryilmaz's research also draws from concepts covered in information systems courses, specifically, IT 380, Web Programming and IT 401, Web Intelligence. And with a PhD in Information Systems and Technology, Dr. Eryilmaz's research also has applications outside the department of computer science and information technology and draws significantly from underlying theories in MIS 310, Management Information Systems.

Dr. Eryilmaz will provide students with a multi-disciplinary experience and offer those in attendance the opportunity to learn more about opportunities in research and industry. Dr. Eryilmaz is also willing to meet and field questions with students after the lecture.

4. Activity Assessment

Describe the assessment process and measures that the program will use to determine if it has attained its educational goals.
Please note that a report will be due at the end of the semester.
