Introduction to the Thesis - Led by Dr. Cynthia King

Explore the questions, considerations, and challenges you face as you work towards your thesis. While we will not replace your faculty advisor, who has expertise in your chosen field, the Graduate Writing Studio offers informal and professional help in the writing process itself.

Please bring your notes and/or writing samples from your thesis/project to this workshop, and our Writing Studio Instructors will work with you as you take the first (or next) steps.

Broome Library and You: From Literature Review to Resources - Broome Library Can Help You Succeed - Led by Monica Pereira

In this interactive workshop you will learn all of the resources and services Broome Library has to help you complete your post-baccalaureate assignments. Bring any questions you have about Broome Library resources, services, and materials, and any research assignments you have. There will be plenty of time for you to work on your own research and there will be a librarian to help with all of your research questions.

I Finished My Thesis. Now What Can I Do With It?

Dr. Cynthia King and Monica Pereira will discuss the opportunities for contributing to the community of scholars as writers and presenters.

* If you have a laptop or other internet device please bring it with you; if not we will have a limited amount of devices available for students to use during the workshops.
