INTRODUCTION AND CONTEXT

Organizational Structure
The Division of Business & Financial Affairs (BFA) is comprised of eight units and four core programs, plus auxiliaries, which support the University by providing essential program and support services. During the 2016-17 year, the organizational structure included Administrative Services; Budget & Planning; Facilities Services; Financial Services; Human Resources; and Public Safety. Additionally, BFA is responsible for Environmental Health & Safety, Internal Audit, Risk Management, and Title IX and Inclusion. Over the course of the 2017-18 year, organizational changes will be implemented to continue enhancing services and ensuring alignment with the strategic direction of the University.

Role
As CSUCI continues to grow, the division has continuously anticipated University needs, and routinely mobilizes resources to increase capacity in support of this expansion. Near-term planning recognizes that our current student population has reached approximately 5,700 full-time equivalent students (FTES), with long-term planning for 15,000 FTES at full build-out. Current plans use an enrollment growth assumption of 3% per year. BFA strategic priorities focus on establishing and maintaining systems and structures to support the next phase of growth and organizational maturity.

Our Approach: Collaboration
As we continue to build programs, create structures and processes, and provide next-level services, we deliberately invest in building relationships amongst the BFA units, with other campus units, and with our community partners. The results of these investments are developing in the form of partnerships, LEAN improvements and cost savings, as well as less tangible assets like strengthened trust, goodwill, and increased capacity for effective change and further innovation.

Our Approach: Transformation
The funding and anticipated campus growth challenges we face have required a shift in the way we conduct business. In addition to incremental improvements in our operations, transformational changes to our unit, and program leadership and business strategies, will help us to serve our current and future student populations. We continue to challenge and re-conceive our programs and services, putting improved systems in place, while intentionally challenging ourselves as leaders. We are also empowering staff members of BFA by equipping them with the skills and knowledge needed to fully participate in planning, implementation, assessment, and improvement processes.

BFA Mission, Vision, Values, and Goals

Mission: The Division of Business and Financial Affairs’ component units and programs support CSUCI’s academic mission and strategic direction of the University by transforming the delivery of services through continuous improvement.

Vision: We are the recognized leader for delivery of outstanding services.

HIGHLIGHTED ACCOMPLISHMENTS 2016-17

Strategic Resource Planning

In partnership with the Provost, BFA guided the University’s strategic resource planning process for the 2016-17 fiscal year and drafted a budget recommendation for approval by the President. The Strategic Resource Planning Committee (SRPC) website reflects budget development processes, and provides access to budget information in support of the Committee’s commitment to transparency (Strategic Resource Planning). Annual snapshots continue to illustrate thoughtful analyses of the University’s resources to support the President, the Provost, and other senior leaders to facilitate sound and informed decisions. Our multi-year budgeting and forecasting approach continues to work toward alignment of resources directly to the campus’ strategic direction.

As a baseline operating practice, all units within BFA annually review current resources to ensure that they are allocated to the best and highest purpose of the University; continuously identifying ways to improve the programs we administer. With the implementation of the Lean Six Sigma program in its fifth year, we have identified additional cross-divisional efficiency opportunities in support of the University’s growth. As a continuously improving enterprise, the division operationalizes its strategic plan through the development of action plans that address goals and objectives, many of which are multi-year in nature (Appendix 1).

CI 2025

BFA has made significant progress with the CI 2025 Vision Plan initiative, which incorporates innovative approaches to funding a major capital expansion for the campus. During FY 2016-17, we completed the first phase of the project with the sale of the east campus 328 apartments and Town Center that will provide the University with $81 million. Of this, $74 million was used to pay down bond debt and escrow closing costs, and the remainder will be used to meet the highest needs of the University.

The next phase of CI 2025 is underway; following prior concept approval by the CSU Board of Trustees for a public/private partnership mixed-use housing development project. An exclusive negotiating agreement was executed with Kennedy Wilson with preparations for final CSU System Board of Trustees approval that occurred at the July 2017 meeting. CSUCI continues to be at the forefront of public/private partnerships, using innovative methods that are synergistic with a culture of collaboration and partnering.

Efficiency and Effectiveness Program

During the Spring 2017 semester, The Vice President established and convened the Administrative Efficiencies Committee. The charge of the Committee is to recommend operational improvement activities for administrative efficiencies across CSUCI and its auxiliaries to facilitate administrative and students services that are cost-effective and efficient.

The Committee includes representation from each division on campus and will participate in vetting proposed campus-wide administrative programs and procedures. Committee members will also assist with identifying, monitoring, and reporting divisional efficiencies achieved within their respective departments and divisions. Efficiencies captured will include both cost-avoidance and cost-savings opportunities, and process improvements. The LEAN program and its training program will support the work of this committee as well.
In addition to collecting and reporting campus efficiencies, the Committee will serve as a resource for reporting efficiencies to the Chancellor’s Office annually. The September 2016 report to the CSU Board of Trustees, highlighted the work of the CSUCI LEAN program reported by President Beck.

The division also recognized Ray Porras from Transportation and Parking with the prestigious Flying Dolphin Award, for his extraordinary service and achievements in supporting the development of CSUCI.

In addition, resources were strategically reallocated to meet important divisional staffing needs. These resource reallocations helped fund the hiring of a Chief Engineer. A reorganization of Facilities Services was also finalized to meet changing organizational needs more effectively. Recent retirements also provided opportunities to recruit new talented employees, provide promotional opportunities, or shift resources to more effectively serve the campus. Furthermore, some key resources were established to provide enhanced support to the units within the division, including support for web services. The following provides some additional highlights relating to how the division is working to attract and retain a diverse and talented staff:

As with the prior year, the division will continue to base our work on performance goals and include efforts to address administrative effectiveness and efficiencies. Much of the work of the division is multi-year in nature, and projects will continue to improve performance based on best practices and data collected to improve the delivery of services and ensure compliance with established mandates. For new projects, strategies are developed using resources from professional associations, best practices, and data collected on the relevant topic to be addressed. Finally, fundamental to our operations, is the standard of fiscal stewardship to meet current needs, including reallocation of divisional resources to meet operational requirements.

Attachment 1
Attachment 2 – Quality Improvement and Quality Principles

Our quality definition articulates the goals we all share. This definition provides a common direction and focus, even though our individual work and customers vary. If we do not collectively know where we are going, it is hard to move in the same direction and to measure and celebrate success. To manage, we must all understand and commit to the quality standard.

Customer Service Focus: Our customers constantly evaluate the work we do. Anything not adding value for a customer should be considered for change or elimination.

Continuous Improvement: Continuous Improvement is a constant and incremental process. It involves small steps, is a team effort, focuses on processes and is driven by people. Most improvements in an organization come from continuous improvement. Dramatic change is the reverse of continuous improvement. It involves big steps, is usually abrupt, and is most often driven by technology. Dramatic change happens infrequently and repositions the organization to a new level of performance from which continuous improvement begins again.

Employee Engagement: People are our greatest resource. Involving the right people in decision-making generates better solutions. Customer concerns are more quickly resolved. Critical to employee participation is education and training, teamwork, empowerment, open communication, and recognition. Benefits of the approach include higher morale and productivity, better solutions, better educated workforce, and more satisfied customers. Knowledgeable staff on process improvement teams produce changes that are more effective than management-directed outcomes.

Process Focus: Almost everything we do is a process. A process is a group of logically related activities using resources in an organization to produce results. If you manage the process, results will follow. Most problems come from process issues. A focus on work process requires a long-term orientation, training and skills development, a supportive environment, understanding of the broader context of the job and process, and team recognition. Focusing on the end result is the opposite of work process focus and produces a short-term orientation, rules, regulations, managerial control and penalties for errors.

Plan for Change: It is important to anticipate and plan for change. With good planning, communication, review, and quality-improvement initiatives, most potential problems in meeting our customers’ needs can be foreseen and prevented. In addition, we create a more productive, stress-free environment. Among the results sought are elimination of rework and backlogs, more accurate scheduling, shorter lead times, better use of resources, and a better office climate. Reaction is the opposite of prevention. Lack of prevention dooms us to repeating our past mistakes and engaging in never-ending fire drills.

“Do It Right” Attitude: If we each "do it right the first time," the customer gets better service and we will have more efficient processes. This saves time for the customer and us. When trying something new or improving a process, mistakes will happen. A “Do It Right” attitude should not stop us from trying something new. It should, however, keep us from delivering poor or incomplete service.

Total Involvement: To effectively manage our rapidly changing environment in positive ways, we must all be externally focused on our customers’ needs. We must work in teams to solve problems and improve processes. We must communicate openly in all directions. The assumption that quality is someone else’s problem is the opposite of total involvement. When employees assume that they are powerless to suggest changes and communications are kept to a minimum, a lack of trust can develop between leaders and staff. There is no sense of ownership by staff for the day-to-day problems with customer service. Quality is everybody's business, from new employee to our divisional leaders.
